Since the early 1970's Hoagie Haven has been a Princeton staple serving hoagies, sandwiches and grinders to scores of loyal customers. They were the first to serve up large hoagies in the Princeton area. They believe in keeping it in the family so Uncle Haven's nephews, Mike, Niko and Costa Maltabes are now running the business. About 30 percent of the restaurant's customers are students and the Maltabes brothers hope to continue that tradition with their new venture Slice Between Pizza.

On the other side of Slice Between is George's Wings and Ribs, run by Niko Maltabes, Costa and Mike's

"We originally chose The Bank of Princeton because we believe in supporting local businesses. We stay because the Nassau Branch feels 'like home' to us", says brothers Costa and Niko.
